Investment Objective and Investment Strategy

Mutual's objective is to source and actively manage a portfolio of fixed interest credit assets across, ADIs, corporates and structured finance. Targeted portfolio construction is to hold assets with a shorter credit duration to ameliorate periods when risk assets sell-off. Mutual manages interest rate risk by predominately investing in assets that reset their reference rate every 30 or 90 days.

Performance

Heightened inflationary risk and resulting monetary policy consequences remained central themes through May. Equity markets are volatile as traders grapple with the question of when inflation will peak for the current cycle, while bond markets are starting to look fully priced for the ongoing central bank policy action. The Australian Federal election came and went during the month, with the change in government a non-event for markets. The first rate hike from the RBA since 2009 was a slightly different story, with the +25 bps move above the expected +15 bps change, sending government bond yields and swap rates sharply higher. Another hike was expected at the June meeting, and the RBA delivered with a +50 bps increase. Money markets continue to price in a sharply higher cash rate by year end. RBA OIS is approaching 3.00% for December 2022, versus 3m BBSW around 1.25% and an official cash rate of 0.85%. The range on the terminal cash rate from the 4 major bank economics teams is a low of 1.60% to a high of 3.00%, highlighting how uncertain the path is for the official cash rate. Credit spreads continued to trend wider globally, although the pace of widening eased through May vs April. Domestically, bank credit spreads were materially wider on the back of continued issuance from the majors. While it was well flagged by the banks that they would be returning to a more 'normal' issuance program, the increase in issuance has come at a time when markets are fragile, resulting in spread widening at a faster pace than we expected. At month end, credit spreads are above historical averages and look to be consolidating around these levels.

Outlook

In structured credit, it was the return of ADI RMBS that made up a large portion of the $5.5bn of deals priced during May. Bendigo, HSBC and AMP all priced deals, and Suncorp through the Apollo RMBS program was in market at the end of the month. Pricing remains elevated for the AAA tranches (see chart), however continues to clear with the support of JLM (Joint Lead Manager) bids. The mezzanine tranches are also finding support from regular investors at current pricing levels. Credit spreads are trading above long run averages, and with 1m BBSW moving higher and the prospect of further monetary policy action from the RBA a certainty, the outright yields available are looking positive for returns going forward.
