Investment Objective and Investment Strategy

To actively manage a portfolio of debt instruments offered by Australian ADIs, with a minimum of 60% invested in the major Banks. Mutual manage the Fund to provide investors a high level of capital preservation and to outperform the Bloomberg AusBond Bank Bill Index, generating net returns to investors in excess of cash alternatives.

Performance

Heightened inflationary risk and resulting monetary policy consequences remained central themes through May. Equity markets are volatile as traders grapple with the question of when inflation will peak for the current cycle, while bond markets are starting to look fully priced for the ongoing central bank policy action. The Australian Federal election came and went during the month, with the change in government a non-event for markets. The first rate hike from the RBA since 2009 was a slightly different story, with the +25 bps move above the expected +15 bps change, sending government bond yields and swap rates sharply higher. Another hike was expected at the June meeting, and the RBA delivered with a +50 bps increase. Money markets continue to price in a sharply higher cash rate by year end. RBA OIS is approaching 3.00% for December 2022, versus 3m BBSW around 1.25% and an official cash rate of 0.85%. The range on the terminal cash rate from the 4 major bank economics teams is a low of 1.60% to a high of 3.00%, highlighting how uncertain the path is for the official cash rate. Credit spreads continued to trend wider globally, although the pace of widening eased through May vs April. Domestically, bank credit spreads were materially wider on the back of continued issuance from the majors. While it was well flagged by the banks that they would be returning to a more 'normal' issuance program, the increase in issuance has come at a time when markets are fragile, resulting in spread widening at a faster pace than we expected. At month end, credit spreads are above historical averages and look to be consolidating around these levels.

Outlook

It was a busy month for issuance domestically and offshore by Australian ADIs. ANZ priced 5 year AUD senior in early May at +97 bps, which was repriced wider by Westpac issuing at +105 bps later in May. At the end of the month, NAB joined in pricing 3 year AUD senior at +90 bps, which repriced the secondary senior curve wider again. The volume of issuance has been absorbed so far, however a break from new deals is needed before we see any meaningful performance in credit spreads. In T2, Macquarie Bank issued in the 10NC5 year tenor, finalising pricing at +270 bps. In this new issue, the demand for fixed rate assets was a highlight. With a coupon available to investors above 6%, the fixed rate printed a larger tranche than the floating rate ($500m v $350m). By the end of the month 5 year major bank senior was trading around +100 bps, and we expect a new major bank 10NC5 year T2 would need to print in the mid +200 bps to attract demand. These levels are above long run averages, and with 3m BBSW moving higher, the outright yields available are looking positive for returns going forward.
